Your

Wedding

At St Mary the Virgin
Bradoc

Your special day in a secluded, spiritual, tranquil place, older than most castles, surrounded by the relics of ancient peoples who for thousands of years worshiped, lived and worked in the lands around this ancient Church. Where there has been Christian worship from the seventh century. This is one of Cornwall's most beautiful and forgotten largely 13th – 15th century buildings, in a stunning setting and central location adjacent to the Bocconoc Estate.

Imagine

Your special day, how you would want it to be: -

Arrive by horse and carriage, to the sound of the bells, prepare under the shelter of the lych gate, enter the church by the great west door, to the sound of the organ, in a church filled with your friends. Take photographs by the south porch and leave under garlands of flowers from the arched lych gate.

Imagine

Having your wedding where the BBC filmed wedding scenes in Daphne du Maurier's My Cousin Rachel, and Winston Graham's Poldark

Imagine

Your wedding day is limited only by your imagination.

Reception options at church

At the rear of the church is a small area, which can be used for refreshments.

Reception options nearby: -

Private drive to facilities at Bocconoc House, including
Marquee, state rooms and stables

Choir; why not let children or elderly guests sit in the choir stalls for a better view?

Or perhaps sit them in the north chapel where again they have a special view of the ceremony.

Arrive at the covered lych gate – for final adjustments – just in case it's raining.

Imagine the bride has arrived at the far lych gate, enters through the tower west door, and emerges with her husband through the south door for group photos.

Leave for your wedding breakfast through the south lych gate, perhaps with guests holding garlands of flowers, perhaps to go to Bocconoc down the private drive opposite and adjacent to the car park?
